To whom it may concern,

This letter concerns the previous employment of Natasha Tupper – a faithful employee who consistently sought to support our company within her role as a Recruitment Assistant for over 2 years.

I currently serve as the Executive Manager of Recruitment & Client Services at Solutions Staffing Inc. and have had the privilege of hiring and working with Natasha for over two years. It has been a pleasure to watch Natasha grow and flourish during her time with Solutions.

Upon her hire, Natasha was quick to learn the roles and responsibilities of the Recruitment Assistant. Seeking to support the team at large, she assumed responsibility of email marketing and schedule management for field staff. To do so successfully, she promptly mastered three different programs and learned to address the various questions and concerns presented by our field staff in ways that aligned with our detailed policies and procedures.

In addition to the above, Natasha was eager to assist in monitoring an intricate process related to collecting data on pending licensures. After learning the system in place, Natasha then sought to improve upon it, making new communication pathways for other departments to ensure that all parties understood the file. Natasha never failed to update the related records and played an essential role in ensuring our field staff could practice safely while on assignment.

Overall, Natasha was a reliable employee. She could always be counted on to arrive on time and ready to assist. She was kind, understanding, and open to constructive criticism. Most importantly, though, Natasha always sought, and approved of, whatever was best for the team, even if it meant a heavier workload for herself.

Having worked closely alongside Natasha, I have no doubts that she will excel within your company. I commend her character and trust she will make a valuable asset to your team, and would happily provide a reference. Sincerely,

Tyla Johnson, BSc., CMP, RPR
